

The Optical Properties of Ag Nanorods Calculated by Discrete Dipole Approximation

Z.-Y. Zhang and Y.-P. Zhao

Department of Physics and Astronomy, University of Georgia, Athens, GA 30602, USA.

Abstract

The optical properties of nanorod become very important to develop nanomaterial based on chemical and biological sensors. We use discrete dipole approximation (DDA) to calculate extinction efficiencies of different aspect ratio and diameter silver nanorods. These results show different from classic Gans theory.